Thirty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Look! Here is the bridegroom! Come out to meet him." Matt 25:6

Today's Gospel offers us a story regarding the meaning of life - for each of us. "The parable of the ten virgins, called to go out to meet the bridegroom (cf. Mt 25:1-13) is a story that reflects the grand preparation for the day when we will be called to go to Jesus!

The difference between the wise and the foolish is: preparation. The text says: the wise "took flasks of oil with their lamps" (v. 4); the foolish, on the other hand, did not. The oil cannot be seen. It is inside the lamps. It is not conspicuous, but without it the lamps have no light. Let us look at ourselves, and we will see that our life runs the same risk. Many times, we are very careful about our appearance – in order to make a good impression in front of others. But Jesus says that the wisdom of life lies elsewhere. It is in taking care of what cannot be seen and more importantly - taking care of the heart - that matters.

Nurturing the inner life and making room for silence allows us to be capable of listening to ourselves and others. Devoting time to the Lord or listening to His Word is also important. The inner life cannot be improvised. It must be prepared by dedicating a little time every day, with constancy, as one does for every important thing. Am I dedicating time to the care of the heart, to prayer, to service to others, to the Lord who is the destination of life? How is the oil of my soul? Do I nourish it, do I keep it well?"
